Powder coating provides a virtually maintenance-free finish by adhering directly to the stainless steel. The realistic wood grain pattern brings another level to any design.

Disclaimer: Due to the differences in powder coat paint batches, subtle variations in color may occur when ordering door replacements or additional cabinetry after the initial purchase. Although we consider these variances to be minimal, there is no way to assure an exact color match.

Powder coat finishes are represented for display only.

Paper & ink limitations of color samples as well as influence from heat & light may account for differences in actual color.
